AN AWFUL TALE OF CRUELTY TO CHILD

Child Tells of Stepmother's Beating and Even Pulling Off of Ear.
While Angry.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., July 30.—(Associated Press.)—The little body of a child, emaciated, with pain and covered with bruises, 11-year-old Emma Brockhaus was on the witness stand in the police court and told a history of almost unbelievable cruelty habitually practiced on her by her stepmother.

Anna Brockhaus failed to answer to a charge for beating the little girl's ear off from her head. The story was listened to by the largest crowd that has ever been in the police court, a crowd which more than once threatened to break the bond of court decorum and which half a dozen policemen tried to restrain.

The little girl testified that her stepmother beat her with whips, three of them black-and-white, who told of her ear being torn off and her little back being burned with a red hot poker. Women fainted and strong men turned their heads away ashamed of the tears while listening to this awful story.

CIRCUS ARRIVES AS SCHEDULED

GREETED AT DEPOT BY SMALL BOYS AND BIG ONES TOO.

FINE PARADE AND SHOW

Interesting Scenes at the "Lot" Early
This Morning—Menagerie Fine.

Hundreds of boys and girls with excited looking fathers, mothers, uncles, aunts and not infrequently grandfathers, and chaplains, were up with the first streaks of dawn this morning to see the circus trains of Barnum & Bailey unload and enjoy the sights of the circus day. They saw herds of elephants, mammoth cages of wild animals, toy ponies, strange looking camels, and all the animals and paraphernalia that go toward the making of one of the world's greatest shows, unload from the cars and take their way to the circus grounds.

The tent and stake wagons were the first on the grounds and under the skilled direction of one of the "colonels" of the circus army they were soon located, and the steady thump, thump of the sledges provided the "foundation" for the tented city and in less than the time it takes to tell it, after the first wagon reached the lot, there was a great spread of canvas. Tent after tent appeared, grew and raised in a manner that would astonish the average onlooker if it could but observe. It was a revelation to many to watch the grounds mapped out for the different tents, see the cook tent rise, the dining hall, the horse tents, the menagerie and the big top all go as though by machinery, swarms of men that seemed as though they must fall over themselves, but whose orderly thump, thump as they drove the big stakes home showed training in their particular work.

The herd of elephants had a good drink at the Spring Brook fire station, many enjoying the luxury of throwing a painful, or rather a trunk full, of water over their backs. The camels had had their drink earlier and lay down calmly chewing their cud as contentedly as old house cows. It was eight o'clock when the "artists" arrived at the lot. Every person who takes part in the ring work is an artist and a clever lot of people they looked. To belong to the circus ring folk one must have a circus aristocracy behind one, come from some noted family of circus folk and not be merely an outsider.

It takes years of training to be a successful "artist" and the majority of them come from Europe, where the circus folk are a people all by themselves. They are careful people and after the parade this morning and before the afternoon performance the women might be seen sitting on a wagon tongue sewing and the men reading and smoking.

The inside life of the circus attracts many visitors and lucky are those who can peep behind the scenes. The rousters, the canvasmen, the stake-drivers are always seen, but the peep into the inner circle of the circus is interesting in itself. They eat with the rest of the circus folk in the big dining tent, have the same food as the rest, but their tables have tablecloths and their waiters wear linen coats. Barnum and Bailey feed their employees well. They take particular care of the inner man as well as the outer. The cook tent was the first up and the first down in the evening. It travels with the first section of the show and is one of the important adjuncts of the show life. Before the big top is really ready for the afternoon performance the work on the parade began this morning. The covers were taken from the different wagons, the leaders of the open cages cleaned and the horses put in the gala harnesses. The floats were all drawn up in line, every wagon having its place, every driver his number where to fall in. System works great wonders in a circus as elsewhere.

The Barnum and Bailey management gives particular attention to the parade features of their performances, which was witnessed by thousands of people today. It proved a glittering pageant of gold and gorgeousness with many unique and interesting features.

A body of trumpeters and mounted heralds led the procession followed by a military band and a number of chariots of allegorical significance, embellished in golden bas-relief.

A group of fourteenth century knights, in picturesque costume, mounted upon richly caparisoned horses, followed. The second division led by a band chariot, consisted of an equestrian display remarkable for the attractive character of the horses. Herds of elephants said to be the only two in captivity, a cavalcade of camels.

The musical clowns leading the third division created considerable merriment. A body of mounted Hussars, two Hussars, two Roman riding chariots drawn by eight fiery steeds, a number of allegorical floats, open cages containing lions, tigers and other wild animals. An enormous tank cage showing the monster hippopotamus completed the third division. The fourth division consisted of a military band, many elaborately decorated floats, several open cages of polar bears, the performing shield and poles and many other interesting features.

This afternoon at two the circus performance proper was given to a vast audience. The big tent was filled with a fun-loving crowd who had enjoyed the wonders of the menagerie, had stood in wonder before the "Blood Sweating Behemoth of Holy Writ," just like one that former President Roosevelt recently shot, had watched the big elephants devour packages after packages of peanuts and laughed at the monkey family and the funny acrobats.

The call of the palm-leaf fan seller, the Lemmo-Lemmo-Songstress. They have brought their paper and wondered how the giraffe could bend his long neck down to pick up a wisp of straw from the ground. The open cages with the wonders of the forest and jungle, the tigers, the lions, the restless leopards, the jaguars, the tigers and all the other wonders of the natural world. Then comes the call for the show proper. The preliminary fun of the clowns is over; the performance proper begins.

The opening act or grand entrance was delightful to the eye, introducing natives of oriental countries, elephants, horses and camels in rich ornamental trappings.

The sensational feature is the acrobatic equine, Jupiter, a milk white Arabian stallion, is carried on the platform of a balloon to the dome of the canvas, when a shower of fireworks is ignited completely enveloping the beautiful horse in a fountain of fire. During this performance Jupiter stands as motionless as though made of marble.

The aerial riding, three rings, two staves and the great racing oval were filled with artists performing difficult and entertaining stunts.

The menagerie department is filled with interesting and entertaining features, chief of which is "Baby Hunting," the smallest living baby elephant, measuring less than three feet in height and looking more like a toy than like a real live elephant.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the menagerie from a student's point of view, is the chimpanzees. This wonderful manlike creature eats with a knife and fork from a plate, walks upright like a man, smokes a pipe, plays baseball, rolls a hoop and performs many intelligent acts.

There will be a farewell performance at 8 o'clock tonight.

THURSDAY'S STORM DID MUCH DAMAGE

Swept Through Johnstown and Also Reached Lake Delavan Country—Many Narrow Escapes.

It appears that Thursday's storm, or rather storm for there were two in quick succession, did considerable damage aside from breaking the long drought and assuring crops in corn and late potatoes. Aside from the burning of the McCartney barn the storm swept down trees demolished small buildings, tore down telephone poles and at Meloy's farm two valuable registered cows were killed. It then swept over through Emerald Grove towards Lake Delavan.

The line of the storm is sharply marked and it is estimated that one third of the trees in Delavan city were blown down. Teams were used to haul the refuse out of the streets and at Lake Delavan where people were upset and in danger of losing their lives until rescued.

Two young girls from Chicago lost their cars just as the storm broke out the Assembly grounds and in less than a half hour were blown to the other end of the lake. Mr. E. F. Lewis, a young man named Topping, and Mr. Lewis' two nieces, Misses Ada and Mae Lewis, were in a sail boat and in attempting to reach the row boat with the girls were capsized.

At the Y. M. C. A. camp Director Birch and Ralph Thippett saw the overturned boat and started out in a row boat to rescue them but were unable to find them owing to the heavy hail which followed. They were picked up however, by a launch from the upper end of the lake after having been in the water for nineteen minutes.

Several other boats also overturned. In many localities the rain was a God send to the parched farms and assured crops which otherwise would have been ruined. It did not strike any part of Jamesville which was one of the surprising features of the entire storm.

MADE DISCOVERY OF GREAT VALUE

SUCCESSFUL PRODUCTION OF SUGAR BEET SEED IN ARIZONA.

MIGHT GROW IN WISCONSIN

La Fayette Myers, Formerly Connected With Janesville Beet Factory Has Made Interesting Experiment.

In the Arizona Republic of July 14 the following story relative to the discovery of the possibility of growing sugar beet seed in America which has been made by La Fayette Myers formerly connected with the Rock County Sugar Company and now making his home in Arizona. The paper tells of the discovery as follows:

If the experiments of La Fayette Myers, agriculturist of the Southwestern Sugar and Land Company, continue to result as successfully as they have this year, and there is every reason to expect they will, the coming of the sugar people into this section, it is now apparent, means a great deal more for the Salt River valley than anybody, even the sugar people themselves, ever anticipated. It not only means all that the successful operation of a sugar factory means, while his $500 value to sugar beet lands, but it means an added seed by-product to the beet crop, of approximately $100 per acre. And that means a doubling of the value of all choice sugar beet land to approximately $1,000 per acre. This is not written for "boom" literature, but is strictly a news story, for it deals with facts not made public until yesterday, but it ought to stir the market for sugar beet lands nevertheless.

Up to this good hour the raising of sugar beet seed has not been successfully accomplished in America, though the beet is grown in many places as well as anywhere on earth. Practically every pound of sugar beet seed planted in America, and there is annually a million pounds of it used, comes from a limited area in Germany, where the raising of it is made a specialty. Its cost is about ten cents a pound, or $100,000 for a season's planting of the American fields. Phoenix well hope after two or three years of experiment, to pick this plum from Germany and the best part of it is that it will be an inexpensive by-product, almost clear profit, the seed product being just that much added revenue to the sugar crop of each acre. It is almost too good to be true, but the present indications are that it is true and General Manager Davis last night was wearing a smile that almost equaled the one acquired by the successful working of the factory during its first week.

A lengthy article in this paper some months ago, an interview with an importer of beet seed, told the reasons why the seed has never been successfully introduced in this country, or if so it lacked in germination. There was also related how the industry had been specialized by German scientists, how results had been secured and how failure had resulted in this country. Those things are proved facts and need not be repeated at this time, more than to state that in Germany where seed is raised the beet is produced, no sugar and it takes two years to raise the seed. Selected seed only is planted and the seeds grown are then selected, kept over winter in a silo and planted in the spring as are seed onions. In maturing the seed crop the beet roots away, or at least loses its sugar content, so the only produce is the seed and that comes once in two years.

From the experiments of Mr. Myers there is now reason to hope that seed planted in this valley in November or earlier, will produce mature and perfect seed the following summer, with a wasting of only one-half to one per cent of seedling matter, so the skilled farmer may raise a crop of seed and a crop of sugar each year, "on the same vine," so to speak. It is estimated that the beet seed produced in the neighborhood of a ton to the acre, which at a pound means $100 per acre added income for the slight expense of a little more careful attention and the harvesting of the crop. It means the adding to the valley beet growers' crop each year a revenue equal to a two years' crop of the German seed growers.

The discovery was in the first place practically thrust upon Mr. Myers. The Arizona note told that the psychological moment had come to make another star play and it made it.

Mr. Myers planted a considerable acreage last November, having in mind only the securing of beets for the early beginning of the sugar campaign this year, and to encourage the farmers to early planting. When the November beets began to attain a fair size, with one accord they began to shoot up the seed stalks. Mr. Myers and Mr. Davis were depressed. They didn't want seed, what they wanted was beets, and they were embarrassed to see the determination of the beets to run to seed. They did not conceive that the seed would be worth anything and they feared that if they were allowed to go to seed they would deteriorate very much in seedling matter, or even be ruined for sugar, as are the seed growing beets in the old country. That they feared would give a black eye to the industry of sugar making, so they began breaking off the seed stalks from most of the fields, determined to restrain the beets by brute force if they couldn't do it by prayer. So persistent were the beets that finally small areas in different patches to the total of about a hundred acres, were allowed to have their own way, and Mr. Myers decided to lay quiet and watch for results.

He found that on this acreage the seed matured splendidly. They gathered some of the seed and pulled up a few. The latter, when tested, showed that their sugar content was only about one-half of one per cent less than the sugar content of other beets in the same locality which were not allowed to seed. The question next to determine was whether the seed would germinate. He took 100 seeds and tested them. The result, said Mr. Davis last night,

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT IN THE ANKLE

Milwaukee Lad Visiting At Koshkonong Discharged Revolver Into His Foot.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Koshkonong, July 28.—Walter Zabolok, aged 10 years, and a nephew of Norman Heath, accidentally shot himself below the knee Wednesday afternoon with a 32 calibre revolver. The boy lives in Milwaukee and was spending the summer at the home of his uncle, one-half mile north of Koshkonong. Dr. Caswell of Ft. Atkinson was called and found the ball at the ankle but did not think it best to remove it at present.

AN AGED RESIDENT DIED LAST EVENING

Andrew Douglas of Harmony Passes Away Last Night—Member of Second Wisconsin.

Andrew Douglas, one of the old residents of the county, aged seventy-six years, passed to the world beyond at his home in the town of Harmony shortly after eight last evening. Mr. Douglas has been in poor health for a year past and during the past three weeks has been confined to his bed. In 1867 Mr. Douglas enlisted in the Second Wisconsin Volunteers and served through the war of rebellion with that regiment. A part of the Army of the Potomac and a member of the famous Iron Brigade, the Second Wisconsin saw more fighting, lost more men wounded and killed and marched more miles than any other regiment in the history of the world's warfare. It took part in all of the battles of the Peninsula campaign and also played an important part at the battle of Gettysburg.

Mr. Douglas served three years in the army and upon receiving his honor able discharge came back to the town of Harmony to live. During his term of service he received a severe bullet wound in the head. He was a prisoner of war, serving for some time in the Holville prison until exchanged. Mr. Douglas was a man of rare talents and was beloved by his many friends. He always looked on the pleasant side of life and was a member of the Presbyterian church of Rock Prairie. In his home life among his friends he was beloved and his death removes an old and esteemed member of the community.

President W. C. Dandall of Milton College will preach the funeral sermon which will be held at his late home on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, and his remains will be buried in Johnstown cemetery.

BARTENDER WAS TOO FOXY FOR ROBBERS

Hold-up Men Had Big Guns and There Was Lots of Money in Till But Thieves Did Not Get It.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Sheboygan, Wis., July 29.—Two masked men armed with huge revolvers made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up bartender William Dost and three other men at the Phillips Jackson saloon on the Calumet road shortly before midnight Wednesday night and to rob the saloon till. There was $150 in the till but Dost's coolness prevented the two bandits from securing anything.

Too Honest. At last a man has been found who is too honest to be a corporation and a railroad corporation at that.

Manager E. G. Gonschke of the Sheboygan Light, Power and Railway company received the following letter from the morning from a resident of Indianapolis, enclosing 20 cents in coin. The letter was as follows: "203 E. Pratt St., Indianapolis, Ind. July 27, 1930. "Sheboygan St. R. R. Co., "Sheboygan, Wis. NILSSON BROUGHT BACK BY SHERIFF

Clinton Junction Forger Is Here to Face the Court on Forged Checks.

Sheriff Scheibel returned from Kansas City this morning with William Nilsson, the Clinton forger. The man tells a pitiful story of his wanderings from the time of his leaving Clinton until he gave himself up to the Kansas City officers. According to Nilsson's story he took the train from Clinton to Chicago; thence to New York and sailed for Hamburg, where his parents, who had been well-to-do, live. He hoped to obtain money there to pay up his father and then have enough left to send for his wife and child to come to Germany. His father had lost his money and his position and was unable to help him. He staid there a year, working for enough to just support himself. Yearning to see his wife and child he came back to America and began a search for his family. He worked for a short time in a small town near New York and then went to Kansas City. Failing to secure funds sufficient to make up his loss and keep his wife and child in proper manner and upon learning of the death of his child and the fatal injury to his wife in a street car accident, he went and gave himself up. Whether his story is true or not Nilsson is now in a state of collapse and stands in his cell pale and trembling. His whole trouble he says was due to lack of money to keep his wife and child as well as he is now ready to face the charges brought. He will be arraigned tomorrow at ten.

BROTHER OF DEFAULTER QUILTS AS BANK CASHIER

William Marker Resigns Post in First National Institution at Tip-ton, Ind.

Tip-ton, Ind., July 30.—The resignation of William A. Marker, cashier, brother of Noah H. Marker, absconding assistant cashier of the First National bank, for whom detectives and secret service agents are searching, added to the sensation which has stirred the city since the $110,000 shortage was discovered.

William Marker was to issue a statement of his attitude in the bank's affairs during the weeks preceding the simultaneous disappearance of Noah Marker and $60,000 of the bank's cash.

Many had notes and checks are turning up in the progress of the examination of the affairs of the bank by Miller Wolf, national bank examiner at large, and several of the directors.

This paper, bearing forged signatures of substantial citizens, represents, it is said, thousands of dollars abstracted from the bank's funds.

As the accounts are in a tangled condition and there are about three thousand notes to be passed upon, it will be a week or 10 days before a definite report of the condition of the institution can be made. It is not expected that the shortage will be less than $110,000 and it may be much more.

The absconder's picture is in the hands of the federal authorities and as the First National bank is a member of the American Bankers' association the Pinkertons are also looking for the missing man. There is no doubt of Noah H. Marker's indictment by the federal authorities, and it is generally understood by people who are in a position to know that indictments will be returned against other people interested in the bank.

HARVEST HANDS ARE IN DEMAND

Work for Thousands of Men at Good Wages in the Northwest.

St. Paul, Minn., July 30.—For the purpose of assisting the farmers of the northwest to obtain an adequate supply of help for the abundant harvest that is now assured, and also to direct men seeking work to the various places where their services are in demand, the Northern Pacific Railway Company has issued a circular telling where in the states of Minnesota and North Dakota several thousand men will be needed in the next few weeks.

This circular gives the names of the various towns along the line of road, the date at which harvest will begin, the number of men wanted at each point and the rate of wages. The lowest rate of wages quoted is $1.50 a day, but the general rate is from $2 to $3. A small army of men is needed.

CLEW TO MISSING JURIST.

Barber Says He Shaved Kenosha Judge's Beard Off.

Kenosha, Wis., July 30.—The most important clue discovered since the disappearance of Judge Clarkson was found at the village of Winthrop Harbor, when a barber declared he had shaved the whiskers of a man closely answering the description of Judge Clarkson nearly two weeks ago. This is in keeping with the action of the judge at the time of his disappearance from Omaha 18 years ago, and at that time the first thing that he did was to have his beard shaved off. If he is shaved off his appearance would be entirely changed. All of the printed matter sent out in the search shows the missing judge with a heavy beard and if he took the precaution of having it shaved off just as soon as he left Kenosha the work of finding him will be made doubly difficult.

WRIGHT MAY RACE BLERIOT.

Seattle Exposition Offers the Aviators Purse of $25,000.

Washington, July 30.—A squally wind caused another postponement of the ten-mile aerial speed trial of Orville Wright's aeroplane last evening. The Wright brothers have made no announcement in connection with the offer of a $25,000 purse for a race between them and Louis Bleriot, the Frenchman, at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition in Seattle.

Paris, July 30.—Louis Bleriot appeared greatly pleased when informed that the officials of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition had offered a purse of $25,000 for an aeroplane race between him and the Wright brothers. "If either of the Wrights challenges me under the Seattle conditions I shall immediately accept," he said.

LIQUOR INTERESTS HOLD OPEN MEETING

State Meeting at Sheboygan Held Interesting Sessions Yesterday Afternoon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Sheboygan, Wis., July 30.—A big public mass meeting was last evening feature of the Liquor Dealers' convention here. Among the speakers were R. G. Hall of Chicago, secretary of the National Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective association; William Austin of Milwaukee, attorney for the Western Brewers' association and State Senator J. Elmer Lehr of Appleton.

Two Rivers delegates wearing white canvas hats with their city printed in large letters on each headpiece and headed by the Two Rivers band marched through the city booming their town for the 1910 convention. Business sessions throughout the day were decidedly secret. State Senator Lehr of Appleton in a brief address spoke in favor of a legal department to look after interests of the association. The resolution which followed his address has not yet been passed on. It provides for a tax of $5 annually on each member of the association.

Considerable discussion regarding the working of the Anti-Saloon League was noticeable, and resolutions have been adopted having for their purpose a full exposure of the workings of the anti-saloon men. Resolutions of condolence were passed in honor of C. S. Snyder of La Crosse, formerly president of the association and a charter member.

Acting President Langen in his address before the Liquor dealers yesterday afternoon said in part:

"It should be the duty of every local organization in the state and country to see to it that saloons in their respective localities obey the law especially relating to the selling to minors and habitual drunkards and to use every effort to eliminate what is known as the 'Dive saloon' where women, unattended by escorts come in and secure all they want to drink and the closed where men should be abolished as these have done more to bring discredit upon the business than all causes combined and I think it the duty of our organization to do its full share to eradicate those evils that we may place ourselves properly before the people and show them that we are strongly opposed to anything but clean law abiding business."

DISPUTES OPINION AS TO SON'S SANITY

Mishcote Man Demands Rehearing Of Case of 19-Year Old Son and Jury Trial Will Be Given.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Milwaukee, July 30.—Disputing the opinion of physicians who adjudged the boy insane, Edward Huss, Jr., of Mishcote, has demanded a rehearing in the case of Edward Huss, Jr., and the court will order a jury trial. The boy, who is 19, was taken into custody by two deputies of the sheriff after relatives had put up sharp resistance. The lad is said to have been weak in mind for a long time and lately his peculiar actions frightened neighbors who asked that he be taken care of.

FLAMES HAVE FULL SWAY.

Philo, Ill., Without Fire Protection, Is Almost Destroyed.

Danville, Ill., July 30.—The town of Philo, Ill., 25 miles from here on the Wabash, was practically destroyed. Flames broke out in a building on the main street and rapidly spread to the adjoining buildings. It was feared the entire town would be destroyed, as it was without adequate fire protection.

Those present included the men who, with Belmont, are interested in the canal and the construction.

The canal was started on the old Perry estate here and the spade used by Mr. Belmont was of silver. The canal is to cost about $5,000,000, and when completed will form a part of the great Atlantic coast system of inland waterways from Massachusetts to the Gulf.

Pay Roll $700 Per Week, Over $36,000 Per Year

From a very small establishment, when the present management secured the Gazette Printing Co., it has grown until now its weekly pay roll amounts to $700.

The Gazette Printing Co. is larger than any one man, or family. It is an institution in whose employ there are 40 skilled people, each with a good average salary per week.

Besides salaries, the Gazette pays out to local parties many thousands of dollars each year for expenses, such as rent, light, heat, power, postage, drayage, supplies, etc.

The average money paid out each week by the company, as above, is 100 per cent greater than its advertising receipts from local merchants.

For years and years, each employe of the Company has been furnished with a copy of the Gazette every evening. To ascertain to what extent advertisements were being read, and whether or not advertisers were being patronized, the blank form, shown to the right, was handed to each employe.

Here are the results:

The ten grocers who advertise (out of the 30 in the city) get 80 per cent of the business.

The three butchers who advertise (out of seven in the city) get more than 50 per cent of the business.

The five dry goods houses who advertise (out of five in the city) get 100 per cent of the business.

The six clothing men who advertise (out of seven in the city) get 96 per cent of the business.

The three furniture stores who advertise (out of five in the city) get 91 per cent of the business.

The five confectioners who advertise [out of nine in the city] get 90 per cent of the business.

A summary shows that in all 85 per cent of the purchases made by Gazette employes are made from advertisers, and that moneys paid out by the Gazette are twice as great as moneys received from local advertising patronage.

Gazette employes have never been asked to patronize the advertisers. Until just recently Gazette employes have never been DIRECTLY requested to read the advertisements.

These facts embody a wonderful lesson to every merchant in Janesville. It shows that 85% of the business has been influenced by the advertising, entirely upon its own merits.

Another point brought out is that in most instances, advertisers are receiving patronage in proportion to the amount of advertising they do. This would be a natural conclusion, even if our figures did not show it—for, if advertising will influence trade, it will naturally influence trade in proportion to the amount of advertising done.

If there is an advertiser who feels that he is not receiving a fair share of the Gazette patronage (patronage of its officers and employees), let him look to the merits of his proposition.

And again, if you feel that you are not receiving your share of the patronage of the Gazette employees, how or why can you expect to receive a larger proportion of the patronage of the general public.

Advertising will not make people believe that black is white, nor will it drive intelligent people into your store, BUT it does and can present your goods to more people with a single issue than you could see in a month if you did nothing but go from house to house 10 hours a day, and of course at much less cost.

There can be but one BEST advertising medium for your business. That is the medium that reaches the greatest number of the right kind of people for the least money. For every business that deals with the general public, The Gazette is the best medium.

If you think you know of a better medium, we invite you to compare costs and results, [the two greatest factors in advertising.]

If you would look to see where the greatest number of our best merchants advertise, look through the Gazette.

If there is a medium that produces more results than newspaper advertising, rest assured that merchants the world over would have found it, long years ago.

If you are one that believes that advertising is good for the other fellow, but not for your business, we would like to put your name on our mail list to receive a series of valuable articles on advertising. Phone 77-2 rings or drop us a postal.

We desire to gather certain data from among the employees so as to form some averages for use in advertising.

Will you please answer the following questions in detail and drop this slip into the Data Box on the front counter of the main office.

DO NOT SIGN YOUR NAME or intimate whose slip this is.

From which grocer or grocers do you buy your supplies?

A score of workmen from the plant fled into McKees Rocks, with the mob in pursuit, and girls who had just left the company offices ran about screaming, thinking the strikers intended to attack them. ## PAYNE-ALDRICH BILL UP TO HOUSE

TAFT WHIPS CONFEREES INTO LINE AND THE BILL IS REPORTED.

VICTORY FOR THE PRESIDENT

Cannon Loses His Fight for Increased Glove Duty and Executive Compels the Adoption of a $1.25 Rate on Rough Lumber.

Washington, July 30.—The house today receives the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill which was agreed upon by the committee last evening after President Taft had whipped the conferees into line and scored a big victory in his fight for downward revision. The house will vote on the bill tomorrow and it is planned to have it go to the senate Monday.
Halted by the mandate of President Taft, the tariff conferees were compelled to turn back and revise their rates on lumber and gloves. In a communication to Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne the president demanded that the high rates on gloves as fixed by the house and the high rates on lumber as fixed by the senate should not be made a part of the conference report.

Surrender to Taft's View.
After struggling over these questions the conferees surrendered to the president's view and signed the report. The report was ordered to be printed by the house. It is the intention of the leaders that the report shall be pushed through in one legislative day. Probably a week will be required to dispose of the conference report in the senate.

President Taft said lumber should not be more than $1.25 a thousand feet for rough, with the differentials fixed by the senate on finished lumber. He declared also that the senate rates on gloves, which are the same as the Dingley rates, and much less than the house rates, would have to be adopted in order to obtain his endorsement.
Not content with leading an injunction against high rates on these articles the president specified that hidden must go on the free list and the house rates on boots and shoes and other manufactures of leather reduced. Hosiery, too, he thought should be reduced below the house rates which were advanced over Dingley duties.

Defeat for Cannon.
Speaker Cannon has been one of the chief supporters of the house rates on gloves. He said he believed those rates were necessary to stimulate manufacture in women's gloves. Former Representative Littner of New York, the largest manufacturer of gloves in this country, is a warm friend of the speaker. He has urged for a number of years that the rate on women's and children's gloves be raised in order to encourage manufacture in the United States. The house rates, so the leaders say, were adopted at his suggestion and because they believed in his argument.
The senate fixed the rate on pig lead at 2 1/2 cents per pound, but this was reduced in conference to two cents. In view of the dissatisfaction of the Idaho senators this subject was reopened today and a rate of 2 1/2 cents a pound on pig lead in bars was restored.

Concession on Tallow Rate.
In view of the action of the conferees in putting hides on the free list a concession also was made to the cattle industry by taking tallow off the free list, where it had been placed by the conferees, and restoring it to the dutiable list at 1 1/2 cents a pound.
The rates on hosiery were fixed by increases of about 20 per cent, in grades valued at $1, $1.50 and $2 a dozen pairs. This is an increase over existing rates, but a material decrease from the advances made by the house. On all other values of hosiery the Dingley rates, which had been re-enacted by the senate, were retained. This action, the conferees believe, was in conformity with the spirit of the president's request.

The Man From Brodneys

By GEORGE BARR M'UTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"Won't you forgive me? I'm a poor brute—don't look at me. In two or three weeks I'll step down and out of your life; that will be penitently enough, don't you think?"

"For whom?" she asked in a voice so low that he could scarcely hear the words. Then she laughed ironically. "I do forgive. It is all that a prince or a princess is ever asked to do, I'm beginning to believe. I also forgive you for coming into my life."

"If I had been a trifle more intelligent I should not have come into it at all," he said. She turned upon him quickly, stung by the remark.

"Is that the way you feel about it?" she asked sharply.

"You don't understand. A man of intelligence would never have kicked Prince Karl. As a matter of fact, in trying to kick Prince Karl out of your life I kicked myself into it. A very simple process, and yet so very intelligent. A jackass could have done as much."

"A jackass may kick at a king," she paraphrased casually. "A cat may only look at him, but let us go back to realities. Do you mean to tell me that these wretches—would dare to sell me—me, I mean—into the kind of slavery you mention?"

"Why not?" he asked soberly, rising and coming quite close to her side. "You are beautiful. If they should take you alive it would be a very simple matter for any one of these men to purchase you from the others. You might easily be kept on this island for the rest of your days and the world would be none the wiser, or you could be sold into Persia or Arabia or Turkey. I am not surprised that you should. You fitz and I mean to destroy all of us. We are to disappear from the face of the earth."

When our friends come to look for us we will have died from the plague and our bodies will have been burned, as they always are in Japan. There will be no one left to deny the story. After tomorrow no ship is due to put in here for three weeks. They will see to it that none of us get out to that ship, nor will the ship's officers know of our peril. The word will go forth that the plague has come to the island. That is the first step, your highness. But there is one obstacle they have overlooked," he concluded. She looked up inquiringly.

"My warships," he said, the whimsical smile broadening.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE PLAGUE IS ANNOUNCED.

THE next morning a steamship flying the English flag came to anchor off Ararat, delivered and received mail bags and after an hour's stay steamed away in the drift of the southeast trade winds—homeward to Cape Colony. The men at the chateau gazed longingly, helplessly through their glasses at this black hulled vessel from the world they loved. They watched it until it disappeared into the sea.

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone from my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am now a healthy woman."

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, throat tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

board the steamer when she called this morning. My plan was to tell them of the trouble here and try to save you. We were all expected to die of the plague—that's what we were—and I realized that Tommy Atkins was off the boards forever.

"We hadn't any more than got the cash and valuables ready to smuggle aboard when down came it upon us—10 o'clock last night, your lordship. He had a dozen men with him, and he told every mother's son of us that our presence in the town was not desired until after the ship had sailed away. We were taken up there into the hills by a squad of men. There wasn't a man among us that didn't know that we were to be killed as soon as the ship had gone. With our own eyes we saw the mail boxes filled and nearly all of the mail destroyed. The pouches from the chateau were burned. Russia politely informed us that the plague had broken out among the chateau servants and that no mail could be sent out from that place. He said he intended to warn the ship's officer of the danger in landing, and—well, that explains the short stay of the ship and the absence of nearly all mail from the island. There won't be another boat for three weeks, and they won't land because of the plague. They will get word, however, that every one in the chateau has died of the disease and that scores of natives are dying every day."

"Well, we decided to break away from the guard and try to get to the chateau. It was their intention to take some of us back to the bank this morning to open the vault and the safes. That was to be our last act, I fancy. About 4 this morning a dozen of the women came up to where we were being held. They were flying from the town and ran into the arms of our guard before they knew of their presence. It seems that those devils down their had set out to kill their women because it was known that one of them had warned Mr. Chase of his danger. During the excitement brought about by their arrival in our camp we made a sudden attack upon our guards. They were not expecting it, and we had seized their rifles before they could recover from their surprise. I regret to say that we were obliged to kill a few of them in the row that followed. You let us in just in time. My sword, it was a close shave."

"It's an ill wind that blows all evil," said Deppingham. "Mr. Bowles, you are welcome. We are a bit short of

"I'll never forget poor Bowles the first time I saw him in his dirty red jacket and that hooded cap of his," reflected Chase, as if he had not heard Deppingham's remark. "He put them on and tried to overawe the crowd that night when I was threatened in the market place. He did his best, poor chap, and I—"

"Look!" exclaimed Britt suddenly, pointing toward one of the big gates in the upper end of the park. "I believe they're making an attack!"

The next instant the men in the balcony were leaving it pell-mell, picking up the ever ready rifles as they dashed off through the halls and out into the park. They kept themselves as well covered as possible by the boxed trees, although up to this time there had been no shooting.

Chase, in advance, suddenly gave vent to a loud cry and boldly dashed out into the open, disregarding all shelter. Two of the native park patrol were hastening toward the gate from another direction. Outside the huge, barred gate a throng of men and women were congregated. Some of the men were vigorously slashing away at the bars with sledges and crowbars; others were crouching with rifles leveled in the other direction.

"It's Bowles!" shouted Chase eagerly. The situation at once became clear to those inside the walls. Bowles and his friends, a score all told, had managed to reach the upper gate and were now clanking for admission, beset on all sides by the enemy's pickets.

"For God's sake, be quick!" shouted Bowles. "There's a thousand of them coming up the milder road!"

The gates were unlocked by the patrol, and the panic stricken throng tumbled through them and scattered like sheep behind the high, sheltering walls. Once more the massive gates were closed and the bolts thrown down just in time to avoid a fusillade of bullets from the outside.

Once inside the chateau the fugitives, shivering with terror, fairly collapsed. There were three Englishmen in the party besides Bowles, and Chase recognized the Persian wives of Jacob von Hiltz among the women who had been obliged to cast their lot with the refugees from Ararat.

The sister of Neenah and five or six other women who had been sold into the island made up the remainder of the little group of trembling females.

The remainder of the mob in all, were of many castes and nationalities and of various ages. There were brown skinned fellows from Calcutta, a couple of sturdy Greeks, an Egyptian and a Persian, three or four Assyrians and as many more. As they walked in life, among them were clerks and guards from the bank, members of the native constabulary, Indian fathers and showmen and vendors of foreign gewgaws.

Bowles, his thin legs still shaking perceptibly, although he strove mightily to hold them in strict "attention," was the spokesman. A valiant heart thumped once more against the seams of the little red jacket. If his hand trembled and his voice shook it was because of the unenvied position to which both had been put in that stirring night at dawn.

"For some time we have been preparing for this outbreak," he said, swinging the glass of brandy that Britt had poured for him. "Ever since Chase began to go in so noticeably for the ladies' album!"

Chase glared at him. The others listened.

"I don't mean the old story, sir, of the Persians, and I'm saying, sir, what's more, there wasn't a word of truth in it—I mean the ladies of the chateau, begging pardon too. Von Hiltz came to me often with complaints that you were being made a fool of by a pretty face or two and that you were going over to the enemy body and soul. When I heard that they tried to kill you the night before last I made up my mind that no white man was to be left to tell the tale. Last night we locked all the company's books in the vaults, got together all the bank notes and gold we had on hand and made preparations to go on able-bodied soldiers. May we count on you and the men who came with you?"

"To the end, my lord," said Bowles, almost bursting his jacket by indignation. The others slapped their legs stanchly.

The arrival of the refugees from Ararat gave the chateau a stanch little garrison of sixty men.

"For the time being we are as snug as bugs in a rug," said Deppingham when all was over. "Shall we rejoice the ladies, gentlemen?" He was as calm as a May morning.

The three leaders found the ladies in the shaded balcony, lounging lazily, as if no such thing as danger existed. Below them in the grassy courtyard a dozen indolent Persians were congregated, lying about in the shade with all the abandon of absolute security. The three women in the balcony had been watching them for an hour, commenting freely upon these creatures from another world. Neenah, the youngest and prettiest of them all, had waived kisses to the proud dunes above. She had danced for their amusement.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott For the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

(Copyright, 1908, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) Aug. 1st, 1909.

(Copyright, 1908, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) Close of Paul's Missionary Journey, Acts xviii:1-22.

Golden Text—In the world ye shall have tribulation; be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.—John xvi:33.

Verse 1—What remarkable thing had immediately preceded Paul's start for Corinth?

There is no record of a vision or any special Divine instruction, for Paul going to Corinth; but is a good man as much guided by God when he is not conscious of it, as when he is, and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 23—What was the attraction between Aquila and Paul? How do you account for it that there is an affinity between men of the same trade?

Have labor men a perfect right to band themselves together, for mutual protection, against the undue demands of capital? Have business men a right to protect themselves against undue competition?

Paul worked at his trade as a tent maker for a living, is there any suggestion in this that modern preachers should do a similar thing?

A large proportion of the membership of the present day Christian church, have the intent ability to preach; ought not this ability to be developed, thus giving to every local church several preachers, and the work being divided between them, would be better done than at present, and each preacher make his own living?

Verse 4—Is it the duty and privilege of every adult Christian to be engaged at least every Sunday, in some specific spiritual work?

Why did Paul, in the beginning, in Corinth, confine his work to the Sabbath day and to the Jews?

Verse 5:6—What effect did the visit of Silas and Timothy have upon Paul? If a good man is ever so much in earnest, may the visit of another earnest man intensify his spirit?

When a man does his very best in preaching, and fails to make converts, is he entitled to as much credit as if he had great success?

Did Paul blame himself for his failure, and that the Jews resisted and blasphemed; and ought a man of God always take a similar position in like circumstances?

Verse 7—Has it ever been in the past, and is it today, sometimes necessary for a good man to leave the church and start a meeting of his own?

Verse 8—Is belief in Jesus an intellectual effect, or is it spiritual and supernatural?

Verse 9:11—What method did God take in this instance to talk to Paul? Why is it that so few Christians have any experience of any special message from God?

Do Christians speak as much as they ought for Christ to-day, and is there any fear of being hurt by speaking for him? Verse 12:17—Can any man expect, even in these days, to be unflinchingly faithful to God, and not make some people angry?

How do you estimate the character of this man Gallio, and what is there in him worthy of imitation? Verse 18:22—Sum up the effects of Paul's efforts as revealed in this lesson.

Lesson for Sunday, Aug. 8th, 1909 Paul's Instructions to the Thessalonians, 1 Thess. vi:12-24.

"ANTI-FREE RAW MATERIAL FACTION" IN THE HOUSE. Congressman W. Aubrey Thomas of Ohio at top; Congressman H. Olin Young of Michigan, below.

Washington, D. C.—As the forces line up for the final fight on the tariff question, after it has been reported out of the conference committee, the insurgents will be well organized under the direction of Young of Michigan, Hubbard of Iowa, Thomas of Ohio and Langley of Kentucky.

By the insurgents are no longer meant those fighting the cause of downward revision, as they were when the house first considered the tariff, but rather are they fighting for protection on raw materials. This change has taken place because the sentiment of the majority has followed the lead of the president in demanding free raw materials. Now the insurgents are those who wish protection for raw materials and are organized under the head of "anti-free raw-material faction."

Genius Styled Re-Incarnation of Mozart.

In the Spanish city of Barcelona less than 13 years ago, was born of humble parents, Popito Arrarola, who has been styled the reincarnation of Mozart. He stands out as the most wonderful example of musical precocity of the present age. When only three years of age he performed wonderful feats upon the piano. The following year he studied under the famous teachers in Germany and when he was eight appeared in public, playing the C minor concerto of Beethoven. In this the boy displayed wonderful technical proficiency which astonished the critics.

His parents were anxious that the phenomenal gift should not be unduly forced, and another year elapsed before Popito's next public engagement, this time in London, and he captured the English critics as completely as he had the German. A few more London and Berlin appearances, from 1896 to the present time, about complete the sum total of his public life, but it was enough to make him one of the sensations of the present London season. His playing is brilliant, possessing the elegance of the Gallic style, despite his German education, and displays a wonderful amount of individuality.

Popito's first American appearance is scheduled for a Metropolitan Opera Sunday concert, after which he will make a limited number of appearances in the larger cities.

Special pianos are being constructed for this tour, with shortened pedals and narrow keyboard, an ordinary piano being too large for the child. His engagements are limited to three appearances a week, and an orchestral appearance will be allowed to play more than one concerto.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

CULTIVATE your enemies.

The fear of criticism is the end of all growth.

Anyone who wants to grow better needs the help of his enemies. And anyone who doesn't at least want to, however poor a job he may make of doing it, hardly deserves a place on this earth.

Our enemies are mirrors for our defects. In them we see our sins and our disagreeable traits reflected, and we can't afford to do without such mirrors. Frequently our faults are magnified, but that only makes them the easier to see and the more likely to be corrected.

This is what one of my young friends said to me the other day:

"Margery doesn't like me, but she did me a very good turn once. She said, 'I should never in the world have suspected that you belonged to a disagreeable spirit, but it did me a lot of good, for she put it before me so carefully as I ought not to have put it before me so far as that. She did more to help me look after my grammar and my use of English than any of the girls who like me.'"

It ought not to have been so.

A friend ought to be someone who loves one dearly enough to hate one's faults.

Any true friend ought to exercise the criticism that cuts like the surgeon's knife, not to wound, but to heal.

Unfortunately many of us are not always strong enough to court such friendship.

I can remember in college feeling from the friends who criticized a certain line of conduct to those who justified me, and saving myself with their praise.

Such advice as that is dangerous and apt to prove as ruinous to one's moral complexion as many of the skin lotions are to one's physical complexion.

I hope I should be wise enough not to apply it now.

"I wonder why Elizabeth doesn't tell me about her love affair any more," said a friend of mine. "She used to come to me for advice all the time."

"Did you tell her you disapproved of it?" I asked.

"I guess I did imply something of the kind," she admitted.

"That explains it," I answered. "Elizabeth doesn't want that kind of advice. She'll keep away from you if you try to give it."

The world needs more people who are brave enough to criticize their friends.

It also needs more who are wise enough to eagerly embrace the criticism of their friends, or if they are not wise enough to possess such friends, of their enemies.
